

What is Stress?

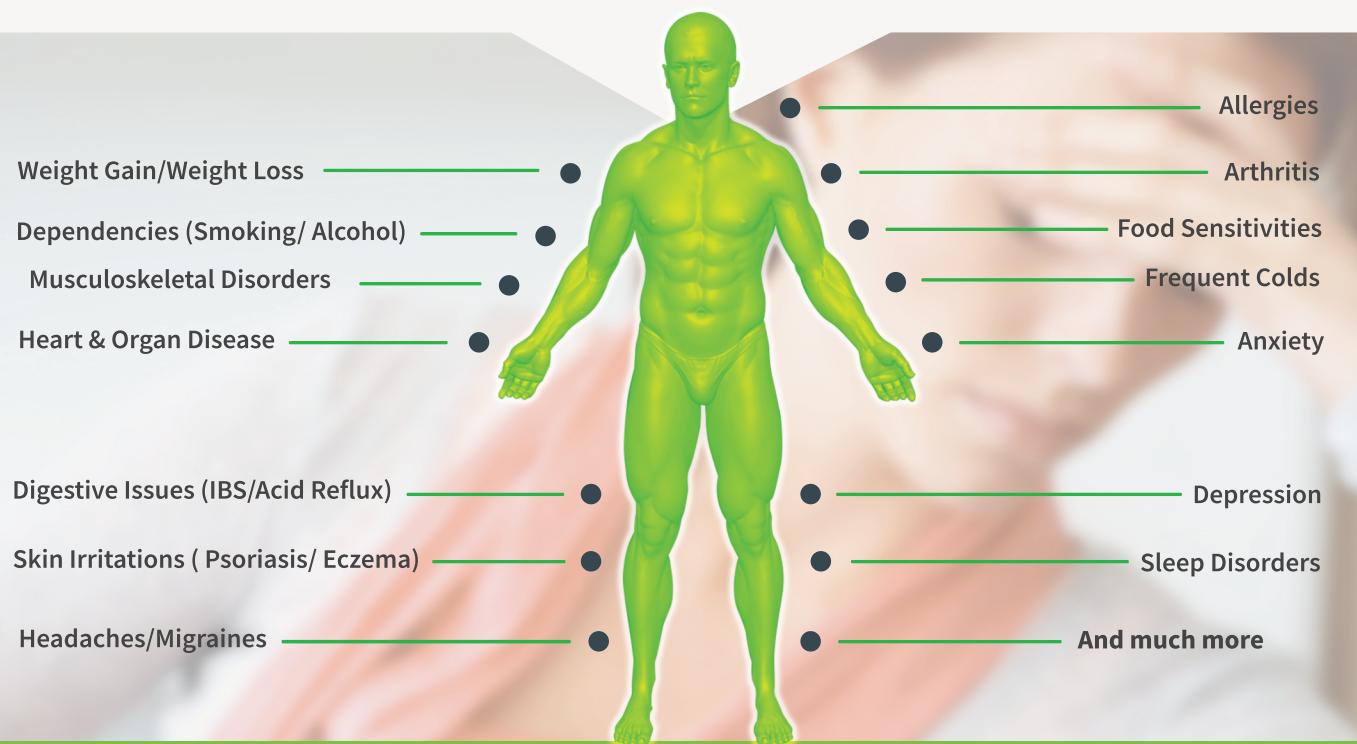

Stress in humans can result from a number of things: interactions between people, environmental conditions or contaminants, and emotional situations or interactions which are perceived by the body as straining or exceeding the adaptive capacities or threatening the well-being of the body.

What is a Stressor?

A stressor is any biological, chemical, emotional or physical substance or factor that can cause the body to have a “strained” or “inappropriate” response to the particular stressor which can lead to temporary or permanent harm.

Internal and external stressors have been shown to contribute to many symptoms and illnesses including:

Who can be scanned with the BioScanSRT System?

The BioScanSRT System can benefit every client whether it is used to address current issues or used as a proactive measure to maintain optimal efficiency and balance because stress affects everyone.

In an overabundance of caution, the BioScanSRT System is not be used on pregnant women or on any person with any electrical device implanted in the body.

Otherwise, the BioScanSRT is safe for adults and children of all ages. The scanning processes are non-invasive and painless.

What is BioScanSRT?

The BioScanSRT combines the disciplines of Acupuncture, Biofeedback, and Homeopathy. A computerized scan is performed to record the reaction of your body to various stressors.

Using the information that your practitioner has gathered a customized protocol can be created to begin your journey to a balanced state.

How does it work?

The SRT software is based upon the physical fact that every substance has its own unique energy signal or “energetic fingerprint.”

The BioScan proprietary database stores the over 80,000 of these energetic fingerprints that may be stressors to the system.

Using the FDA Cleared BioScan System, the practitioner can scan thousands of these stressors in just a few minutes right in the office. The scanning process of the SRT allows the practitioner to test the effect of potential stressors on the body and then evaluate whether this stressor presents a problem.

Potential stressors become problematic when the body's unique response to the energetic fingerprint reveals a challenge or stress to the system. This alters the normal function and energy flow within the system, ultimately compromising the efficiency and balance of the body.

Using the data gathered by the BioScan, the practitioner can easily create a personalized plan to help balance the body.

The BioScan does not diagnose, treat or cure diseases.
